

Japanese Cities Ranked by Population

(est. as of end of 2001)

In the following table, the cities of Japan are ranked by population.

Note that Metropolitan Tokyo (Tōkyō-to) is actually a prefecture consisting of 23 central wards, 26 outlying cities, 7 towns, and 8 villages. The city of Tokyo (Tōkyō-shi) is located in Tokyo Prefecture (Tōkyō-to).

Because the Metropolis of Tokyo and Tokyo Prefecture are coextensive, Metropolitan Tokyo is given the special rank of (1) in the table below.

Unlike any other major country, the population of Japan's capital city, Tokyo, almost equals the combined populations of the next three largest cities: Yokohama, Osaka, and Nagoya.

Pronunciation

Japanese pronunciation is quite simple: The five vowels (a, i, u, e, o) are pronounced as in Spanish. Long (i.e., doubled) vowels are indicated by a macron (¯) over the vowel.

Consonants are pronounced as in English, with a few exceptions.
